Thinks GOPs to Adopt Role of Independence

By JACK BELL

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen Styles Bridges R-N.H., forecast today that congressional Republicans, cut loose from White House ties, will adopt a new independent attitude toward many legislative proposals.

Bridges, who heads the Senate Republican Policy Committee, said this was likely to result in increased opposition to foreign aid and other spending proposals in the session of Congress opening Tuesday.

"In the past our policy largely has been made at the White House," Bridges said. "It was a process of agreeing at the White House and then agreeing in Congress. But there are going to have to be some changes made. I think the Republicans in the two houses are going to work much more closely together than they have in the past. I think there is going to be a new independent attitude on foreign aid and some other matters."

In the last eight years, President Eisenhower has plugged consistently for larger foreign aid spending than many Republicans favored. But many of them went along with the President's program as a matter of what they regarded as political necessity.

Bridges made it clear in an interview he does not believe Eisenhower's views on such matters will have much influence on congressional Republicans after he leaves the White House. By implication, he applied this also to Vice President Richard M. Nixon, the party's losing presidential nominee.

"We Republicans in Congress will listen to suggestions from anybody who wants to make them," he said. "But nobody on the outside is going to dictate to us on policy."

Bridges said he feels confident that around 30 of the Senate's 35 Republicans will be able to agree generally on policy matters. He said he expects only about five to differ substantially from their party colleagues on top issues.

"Since we have lost the threat of a presidential veto we are not going to be able to stop some of the things the Democrats want to put across," he said. "I hope we are going to have the help of Democratic conservatives in stopping some of the wild spending schemes which were pledged in the Democratic platform."

Carpenters Are Scarce in Japan

TOKYO (AP)—Carpenters and bricklayers are getting so scarce in Japan that construction companies are offering skilled men taxi rides to work. The construction ministry estimates the country needs 30,000 more bricklayers and 100,000 more carpenters.

THESE PHOTOGRAPHS MADE AT 7:30 LAST FRIDAY night show the difference between Hope's new mercury-vapor system of high street lights (top picture) and the old white-vapor short standard lamps that were installed 35 years ago (bottom picture).

THE SCENE IS SECOND STREET LOOKING EASTWARD from the intersection with Elm. City Manager G. G. Medders arranged the official turn-on for the new lights at 7:30, then turned them off and relighted the old white-vapor system so a picture could be made. After that the new system was turned on again and another picture made. Present for the ceremony were, besides Mr. Medders, The Star's editor, Jack Fielding, electric superintendent, and William Butler, line foreman, of the Hope Water & Light Plant and Policeman Hollis Moses.

THE STAR'S EDITOR IN MAKING THE TWO PICTURES above, which were given absolutely even treatment in the dark-room, found that the new lights are three or four times as effective as the old ones, at least from a photographic standpoint.

Mr. Medders gave the following explanation of the new lighting system.

"The new mercury-vapor lighting system for downtown Hope provides almost three times the amount of light that was being produced by the old incandescent lighting system. The new system covers five blocks that were not lighted by the old white-vapor system."

"A total of 83 mercury-vapor fixtures have been installed. Sixteen of these are in the five-block area which was not included in the old white-vapor system."

"Sixty-seven of the new fixtures cover the same area as the old white-vapor system and replace 196 of the old light fixtures. The old white-vapor system was installed in 1926 and at the time was the most outstanding street-lighting system in Arkansas. Today's new mercury-vapor system restores that honor to Hope."

"The old incandescent lamps each produced 2,500 lumens of light, or a total of 490,000 lumens for the entire old system. The new mercury-vapor fixtures each produce 20,000 lumens of light. The 67 new fixtures covering the old white-vapor area produce a total of 1,340,000 lumens — or two and three-fourths times as much light as the old system."

"The power required to operate the new system will be about 10 per cent less than was used by the old system. The cost of maintaining the new system will be considerably lower. The old underground circuit gave a good deal of trouble, but the new system is lighted with an aerial cable that should require very little maintenance. The new lamps themselves are designed for an average life of 9,000 hours."

Liberals in Congress Will Fight Filibuster

By JOHN CHANWICK

WASHINGTON (AP)—The skirmishing starts today in the Senate and the House on moves to curb the power of conservatives in the 87th Congress that will convene Tuesday.

In the Senate, a caucus of liberal Democrats was called to map strategy for a fight directed primarily at making it easier to shut off filibusters against civil rights and other controversial bills.

In the House, prior to a caucus of all Democratic members, a group of liberals was angling for the support of Speaker Sam Rayburn for action to weaken the Rules Committee's grip on legislation.

Sponsors of the moves in both branches of Congress contended they were necessary to clear the way for the kind of legislative program urged by President-elect John F. Kennedy in his "new frontiers" campaign.

About 40 of the 65 Democratic senators were invited to today's liberal caucus in notices sent out by Sens. Paul H. Douglas, D-Ill., Joseph S. Clark, D-Pa., and Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Minn.

One of their chief goals is a change in Senate rules so that filibusters can be halted by the votes of 51 senators, or a majority of the 100 members. It now takes the votes of two-thirds of the senators present and voting.

They also would like to bring about changes that would give them a stronger voice in policy-making machinery and whittle away some of the power of legislative committee chairmen, many of whom are conservative Southerners.

The liberal Democratic group in the House has an identical objective in its maneuvering against the powerful Rules Committee, which in the past has bottled up some measures of the kind advocated by Kennedy. It is dominated by Republicans and Southern Democrats.

Murder Case at Mena Is a Puzzler

By WICK TEMPLE

MENA, Ark. (AP) — A new sheriff takes office today and inherits one of the most bizarre and puzzling murder cases in Polk County's history.

Bruce Scoggins, a farmer and stockman who describes himself as "just a country boy," will be faced with solving the ghoulish "torso case" in which clues are almost nil.

A man's torso, sawed in half and with the arms, legs and head missing, was found in a farm well two miles north of here last Friday. State medical examiners have provided an approximate description of the dead man, but his identity still is unknown.

The most puzzling part of the case is that the head, arms and legs are still missing. Officers pumped out the well but found nothing on the bottom but rocks.

Scoggins won't discuss what he plans to do when he gets the case. He is as tight-lipped as Hobart Hensley, the former sheriff, and State Police Criminal Investigator Carroll Page.

"We're just grabbing at straws," Page said evasively. "We don't have any idea where the rest of the body is."

Hensley, who goes out of office as Scoggins goes in, theorized that the man was killed with a 150-mile radius of Mena. "But I don't think he was anybody from around here," he said.

"The medical examiners tell us an expert did this job," Hensley said. "Somebody who really knew what he was doing. And he had quality instruments."

Scoggins is a novice at law enforcement but he'll have veteran help in the torso case from Page and Sgt. Bernard Young, State Police Criminal Investigator from Fort Smith.

Scoggins, 51, owns a farm in this hilly west Arkansas county. "As a job, farming is a poor proposition," he said. "And I kind of got interested in law enforcement."

The new sheriff beat Hensley in last summer's Democratic primary by 28 votes. Then Hensley ran as a write-in candidate in the November general election and Scoggins beat him by 316 votes.

Hensley was acquitted Oct. 20 of a charge of withholding and receiving excessive fees on an expense claim made by a deputy sheriff for transporting two prisoners to the state penitentiary.

He was suspended in June when the charge was made, but the charge was made, but the

Traffic Death Toll About as Estimated

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Traffic	257
Fires	42
Miscellaneous	35
Total	335

Traffic deaths during the long New Year's weekend, although far below the grim toll on Christmas, today appeared running close to the pre-holiday estimate of 340.

The death rate mounted Sunday after a comparatively safe start of the 78-hour holiday period at 6 p.m. Friday. The count ends at midnight tonight local time.

Officials of the National Safety Council expressed concern over the rising death rate and said the toll was running ahead of their estimate and if continued at the same pace was headed for the record toll of 374 during last year's three-day New Year's holiday period.

However, there was a noticeable falling off in deaths during the early morning hours when the latest count showed 257 persons killed in motor vehicle accidents. In other violent accidents, fires claimed 43 lives and 55 persons were killed in miscellaneous accidents.

A week ago, for the comparable period for the Christmas weekend, there were 338 traffic deaths, 55 fire deaths and 60 in miscellaneous accidents. The final Christmas weekend count showed 498 traffic fatalities, 77 in fires and 42 in miscellaneous mishaps for a total of 617.

The council said traffic deaths for a normal weekend at this time of year would be 310. The Associated Press survey for a 78-hour non-holiday weekend last month showed 213 traffic fatalities, 47 killed in fires and 76 died in miscellaneous accidents, a total of 513. Council figures for the first 11 months of 1960 showed an average of about 94 traffic deaths a day.

The spurt in the death rate on New Year's Day was marked by a series of multiple-fatal wrecks. The worst single disaster was a fire in a Columbus, Ohio, home which killed eight children.

Snowy, Cold Over Much of Nation

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

It was cold and snowy across the northern two-thirds of the nation today.

Stormy weather which hampered sections of the Northeast on New Year's Day diminished during the night. Up to two feet of snow was reported in the Pulaski-Pineville and Fulton areas of New York, near Lake Ontario. Update: New York was hardest hit by the storm which sharply curtailed travel on highways and by air.

The snow storm moved out of New England during the night but fairly heavy snow was reported in Maine. Lighter amounts hit northern Vermont but skies appeared clearing in southern New England.

Light snow continued during early morning over the northern Rockies, the northern Plains, parts of the upper and middle Mississippi Valley, the Great Lakes region and the Appalachians.

Severe cold weather swept the eastern Dakotas and Minnesota with below zero temperatures. It was 23 below in International Falls, Minn., on the Canadian border. It was 93 degrees warmer in Miami, a mild 70. Another cold spot was Fraser, Colo., with -20.

Communists in Laos Seize Key Positions

By RENE-GEORGES INAGAKI

VIENTIANE, Laos (AP)—The pro-American government of Premier Prince Boun Oum said Communist forces made advances over the weekend and seized Laos' strategic plain, creating a threat to the royal seat of Luang Prabang and this administrative capital.

In a three-pronged attack, the Reds captured the plain, its airfield and the northern provincial capital of Phong Saly. The Boun Oum government announced, Army defenders were driven back to Xiengkhouang, about 100 miles northeast of Vientiane and about the same distance southeast of Luang Prabang.

Any Vientiane residents who could afford to do so were leaving the city but there were no apparent signs of panic. Streets were almost deserted.

For the first time since Dec. 15 when leftist forces were driven from Vientiane, armored cars were seen rumbling through the streets.

In Bangkok, American sources said 60 American officials have been evacuated from Vientiane to Nonghai in northeast Thailand and that 200 others making up almost all the Americans in the Laotian capital have been ordered to leave. The evacuees were ferried across the Mekong River, which separates Laos and Thailand.

Information minister Bouavann Norasing said the rebel attack is being supported by Red China and North Viet Nam. But he was unable to offer proof of this and Western observers maintained reservations about his claims Laos had been invaded by seven well-equipped Red Vietnamese battalions.

During the fighting for the plain area, the Plain de Jarres, Bouavann said "if it falls, Vientiane, Luang Prabang and Thakhet (provinces) are threatened." Bouavann said the situation "is not desperate because the whole population has arisen against foreign aggression."

Red China's Radio Peking claimed Sunday night the city had been captured by pro-Communist Pathet Lao forces led by rebel Capt. Kung Le.

Bouavann said the government losses were not known. Peking radio said nearly two government battalions were wiped out.

Bouavann raised the possibility Laos would ask for U.S. military help.

"If the invasion continues to the point where our independence is threatened," he said, "we will make a solemn appeal for help to preserve our independence."

The United States has given Laos about $300 million in military aid in the last five years and long has considered it a key to control of strategic Southeast Asia area.

Ten Congo Rebels Killed by UN Troops

LEOPOLDVILLE, the Congo (AP)—Nigerian troops of the United Nations killed 10 rebel Baluba tribesmen who attacked a stranded rail wagon on the line outside Albertville in Katanga Province.

A U.N. spokesman said today the Nigerians were escorting a train of rail workers.

The Balubas attacked with old shotguns and bows and arrows and the Nigerians shot 10 of them down in machinegun fire. They believed several more were wounded.

The United Nations was expected to give another stiff warning to Belgium against letting Congolese government troops use the Belgian-administered strip territory of Ruanda-Urundi as a base for striking at rebels.

Congolese troops sent by Col. Joseph Mobutu attempted to march into Kivu Province from neighboring Belgian territory Sunday but were beaten off in a four-hour battle with rebels.

instated Oct. 24 after his acquittal.

As a man with no previous law enforcement experience, Scoggins will take with him into office deputy Johnny Egar, who has been a Mena city policeman.

The halved torso was found in the well by Mrs. Lee Roy Hill, who had moved to the farm last Thursday with her husband and four children from Mt. Ida, 53 miles east. No blood was found around the well so Hensley theorized the man was killed elsewhere and the body was brought to Mena and dumped into the well.

No clothes or personal effects were found.

State medical examiners in Little Rock said the man was about six feet tall, weighed about 180 to 200 pounds, was about 60 years old, and had blond or light brown hair.

Doctors are making a detailed autopsy in an attempt to determine cause of death.

One curious aspect of the case, Page said, is the fact that a similar slaying was reported in Artesia, N.M., a month ago. The dismembered body of Artesia school teacher Charles Cox, 52, was found in a well.

District Attorney Patrick Hanagan of Roswell, N.M., said there appeared to be no connection between the two startlingly similar slayings.

No missing persons have been reported in the Mena area. Hensley last official act as sheriff

Holly, cedar and red candles were placed at other points of interest.

The serving table was covered with a red cloth with a red net over skirt. In the center was a holiday arrangement of lighted red candles and red plush reindeer on a spruce base. Holiday colors of green and red were carried out in the Christmas cookies, punch and other refreshments.

Music was furnished by the Hardin Brothers Combo and the juke box.

As housewives swept up the last of the confetti today they faced a year in which many of the troubles would be just continuations of 1960's problems.

In the Asian kingdom of Laos, Communist-led rebels captured important ground in the heart of the country. The United States considered the situation so grave that it called for the earliest possible meeting of the Southeast Asia Treaty Council to consider the crisis.

In Algeria, bitter guerilla warfare dragged on between the Moslem nationalists and the French, and death did not take a new year's holiday.

In the Congo, chaos and civil war ruled. The first day of 1961 saw opposing factions of Congolese troops clashing in an inconclusive small-arms battle.

The room was decorated for the occasion with various holiday arrangements. A crystal bowl encircled with greenery and overflowing with multicolored Xmas ornaments on the piano, a decorated Xmas tree stood on a table in one corner.

The refreshment table, which was laden with Xmas delicacies, was covered with a white cloth and centered with a low arrangement of greenery, spruce cones and colorful ornaments surrounding a large white candle.

Misses Paula Edwards and Suz-

Out of town guests included Mr. and Mrs. Harry Hawthorne of Hope, Ark., cousins of the Snells.

Physician,
Heal Thyself!

Dear Helen:

My wife and I have been married seven years. I love her and my three children very much but her attitude is ruining me, our home and our children. If something doesn't happen to change things soon, I'll lose my job (I've already had one warning) or my mind, or both.

My wife has become extremely jealous. Part of this stems from the fact that before our marriage I dated quite a bit while my wife had dates rarely.

I have a job in personnel with a nationwide organization. Because of my college degree in psychology, one day a week anyone connected with the concern (even members of employees' families) can come to me for counseling. My wife knows there are several women who come to me regularly. Whenever she finds out that one has talked to me, she clams up.

On her good days she is a wonderful partner and wife and does all she can to convince me that she loves me—but deep down inside I am beginning to think she despises me.

Is this a normal pattern for

women? Is there something else I can try before I ask for a trial separation? I love her and the children too much to ever be happy apart from them but I have seen signs of my own self-deterioration under this oppressive cloud. Please suggest something other than seeing a counselor or minister because we live in a small town, and since I am a part-time counselor myself, the people here would ridicule us unmercifully. My wife is out for the evening. I have just gotten the children in bed and have to finish this before she returns. —C. C.

Dear C.C.: Your wife's behavior is not normal. Yet, since you love her and there are the three children, a separation should not even be considered.

On the basis of what you tell me your wife needs firm treatment. Tell her she is acting like a spoiled child instead of a mature woman. If she were really adult you should be able to discuss anything with her—including your old girl friends. That you can't, shows you fear her. This is bad. Take the aggressive. A good row might clear the atmosphere.

If she still doesn't snap out of the situation, then she's sick. In that case, see a doctor. It could be a glandular condition. For your professional good, you must solve this problem. Only by doing so can you help others master theirs. I know, for I've traveled the same road. It is indeed a question of "Physician, heal thyself." You can!

Dear Helen:

I am 18, good looking, popular, have a fairly new car, and show girls a real time when I take them out. But when I date girls just because I like them as friends, they really fall for me, but the girls I like best don't. They think I'm sweet and nice and go on their way. Friends tell me that if I'd treat them rough they would fall for me. What is wrong? —Desperate

Dear Desperate: Reverse your technique. Treat the girl you care about as you do the ones you want only as friends

Dear Helen:

My problem may not seem important but it is to me and I'm sure to many others. I would like some suggestions as to what to do when entertaining a boy in my home besides dancing, playing games, watching TV and listening to records. —What-to-do

Dear What-to-do: Flatter your boy friend by being interested in what interests him. Bone up on his hobbies until you can discuss them intelligently. In the doing you both will learn the useful art of communication.

Send your problem to Helen Worden Erskine. Be sure to enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope and address her care of this newspaper. Helpful leaflets available. Write for "Making Conversation."

Nation' Bowl Picture Will Clear Today

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Minnesota, Mississippi, Missouri and Arkansas were the favorites today in the four big bowl games that wind up the college football season.

National champion Minnesota takes on Washington, the defender, in the Rose Bowl. Television is scheduled for 5 p.m. (EST) by NBC.

Mississippi, the Southeastern Conference ruler, plays Rice in the Sugar Bowl. This one will be televised starting at 2 p.m. (EST) by NBC.

Missouri, which won the Big Eight title—the first time in a dozen years that Oklahoma hasn't come out on top—has a date with Navy in the Orange Bowl at Miami. It will be televised starting at 1 p.m. (EST) by CBS.

Arkansas, the Southwest Conference titleholder, tangles with Duke in the Cotton Bowl. Television time is 3:30 p.m. (EST), by CBS—or whenever the Orange Bowl game ends.

Minnesota never has played in the Rose Bowl and will be seeking revenge over the Huskies who last New Year's Day clobbered Wisconsin, another Big Ten outfit, 44-8. Washington was the underdog then, too.

The Gophers, who managed to win only two games in 1959, compiled an 8-1 record in rolling to the national title. Washington ran up a 9-1 mark.

Minnesota will depend on a rock-ribbed defense plus quarterback Sandy Stephens, workhorse Roger Hagberg and swift half-back Bill Munsey.

Washington won three games by one point and another by two points. Bob Schloredt, who missed most of the season because of injuries, is available again and will share the quarterbacking with Bob Hyner.

A crowd of 100,000 is expected in clear weather at Pasadena, Calif.

Jake Gibbs is the backbone of the Mississippi offense that was stymied only in a 6-6 tie with LSU. In 10 games, Ole Miss ran up 266 points. Rice, which finished with a 7-3 mark and second place in the Southwest Conference, will depend on a defense that yielded only 5.8 points per game during the season. Signal-caller Billy Cox is the Owls' top offensive threat.

Missouri (10-0), which never has won a bowl game, has been installed a 6½ point choice over Navy (9-1), which never has lost one. Missouri has a crushing ground offense, to match All America Joe Bellino of Navy. The Tigers also will have to stop passer Hal Spooner.

Arkansas is a one-touchdown favorite over Duke in Dallas. The Razorbacks have a balanced attack, having scored 12 touchdowns, passing and 11 running during the season. George McKinney does the passing and Lance Alworth handles the running. Duke's attack is keyed to the Don Altman to Tee Moorman passing combination.

The annual end-of-the-year bowl hoopla started last Friday when The Citadel defeated Tennessee Tech, 27-0, in the Tangerine Bowl at Orlando, Fla.

In major games Saturday, Florida eked out a 13-12 decision over Baylor in the Gator Bowl in Jacksonville, Fla.; the East defeated the West, 7-0, in the Shrine game in San Francisco; the North All-Stars trounced the South All-Stars, 35-7, in the Blue-Gray game in Montgomery, Ala.; New Mexico State whipped Utah State, 20-13, in the Sun Bowl in El Paso, Tex.; Texas A&I toppled Arkansas Tech, 45-14, in the Great Southwest Bowl Grand Prairie, Tex.; and the National All-Stars turned back the South-West 27-3, in the Copper Bowl in Tempe, Ariz.

TIME FOR VIOLENCE

By NOEL M. LOOMIS

Chapter XIX

The sun had gone down when he turned the last corner and saw the Quarter Circle JB spread out before him.

He made out a yellow light in the window of the sod house and let the black slow to a trot. In 10 minutes he was near the house, and then saw a dark bay horse grounded near the front door.

He frowned, but he knew it was not an outlaw's horse, so he took off the black's saddle and threw it over a low limb of the cottonwood tree. The black was sweating hard from the evening's run. He patted its neck and sent it on to graze. Then he walked to the house.

Catherine was standing, with her back to the stove laughing at something that had been said. The man at the table was 35 years old, small, slender, black-haired, and wore a small black goatee.

Catherine looked at Bart, and the sight of him seemed to remind her of something that sobered her instantly. "Bart, this is Captain Arrington of the Texas Rangers."

Even for a veteran lawman, Arrington's name was one to inspire respect. But Bart sensed something wrong. "Heard about you," he said.

Catherine's back was turned while she poured coffee. Arrington took the cigar out of his mouth. "Lot of people have," he said. "Not always pleasantly."

Catherine sat the cup across the table from Arrington. "Captain Arrington was telling me stories about the war. He was in — what was it, Captain?"

"Mosby's Guerrillas," said Bart sitting down. There was silence for a moment. Catherine looked at Bart, puzzled, and then at Arrington. It had been like a short, sharp explosion of gunfire, and now the participants backed away to load their guns.

"You wiped out the Yagers," Arrington said suddenly. Bart glanced up at Arrington. "You've been talking to Harding?"

"I have talked to no one. I just rode in from Moheetic," Bart said slowly. "Then I know how you found out all this so soon. Xenophon Jones."

game's opening kickoff, opening the door for the touchdown. Judge A&I grabbed a 12-0 lead in the first quarter and never let up. Harold Hees ran 34 yards, Tommy Janik went three yards and Sid Blanks ran three yards for the other A&I touchdowns.

Moore got the Arkansas into the scoring column in the third quarter on a 25-yard pass to halfback J. Henry Brummett. Wayne Carmley kicked his first of two conversions. Moore's three-yard touchdown run came with 2:44 left in the game.

They were up at daylight, and Catherine had breakfast ready. Arrington finished, and said to Bart: "I hate to make you dig him up after you worked so hard to bury him."

Bart stopped abruptly. "I'm not digging up one shovelful, Captain Arrington unless the state of Texas agrees to pay me for it."

"I'll ask you to take turns with me," Bart took a deep breath and looked at Arrington. "Asking is different."

"I should have known that," Arrington sighed. "I'll flip a quarter to see who starts."

Bart nodded. The quarter came heads, and Bart picked up the shovel and started for the grave. "What was this hombre's name?" he asked.

"Tex-Mex was all the name I ever knew. He used to be down at Fort Concho."

Bobcats Edged By Porkers in Tourney Final

By VINCE FOSTER
Hope Star Sports Writer

The Hope Bobcats were edged out 35-31 in a heartbreaker with the Texarkana Razorbacks Saturday night in the finals of the Hope Holiday Tournament. Ashdown took the finals of the Girl's Division 50-48 in overtime over Lewisville.

After two hot-shooting games in this tournament of 59 points each, none of the Bobcats were hitting in their game with Texarkana. Hope started out with a first quarter lead of 11-9, but trailed 16-17 at the half. The Hogs increased their lead to 29-26 at the end of the third quarter. In the final period Hope came within 2 points with time running out, but a Razorback freeze and late score spelled defeat for the Bobcats.

Glen Calhoun was high for the Bobcats with 9 points, followed by Robinson with 8, Fry with 7, Churchwell with 5, and Arnett took 2. Jones was high for the Hogs with 15.

The lead of the Ashdown-Lewisville Girl's game alternated from quarter to quarter with Lewisville leading 7-6 in the first, trailing 22-23 at the half, leading by a big 39-31 in the third, tied 48-48 at the end of the fourth, and on the short end of 50-48 in a two-minute overtime. May of Lewisville was the principal scorer of the game with 34 points. Ashdown's Zachery took 25.

After the Hope-Texarkana game Hope High Principal Jack Beatty expressed his appreciation of the coaches, players, and fans in helping make this tournament successful. He also thanked Coach John Pierce and his cleanup crew, and then Mr. Beatty presented the runner-up trophies to Hope and Lewisville and the winner trophies to Ashdown and Texarkana.

The referees of this tournament were Joe Allen and Sonny Nutt. The official timekeeper was Teddy Jones, Sr., and the official scorer was Charles Beyerley.

All of Blanda's touchdowns came on third down, as did 11 of his 16 completions. The completions were good for 301 yards.

Kemp had thrown six touchdowns in two regular season games against the Oilers, who won the Eastern Division title despite the leakiest pass defense in the league. Kemp's 21 completions Sunday were good for 171 yards but this was well below the 276.7-yard average Houston had allowed in 14 regular season games.

Blanda did not get the Oiler offense under way until the second quarter, by which time Los Angeles had grabbed a 6-0 lead on field goals of 38 and 22 yards by Ben Agajanian.

Drives of 83 and 50 yards put Houston in front, 10-6, with Blanda passing 17 yards to Dave Smith for a touchdown and then kicking an 18-yard field goal. With nine seconds left in the half, a 19-yard punt by Houston's Charlie Elstead went out of bounds on the Oiler 31. Agajanian returned for a 27-yard kick that cut the Oiler halftime edge to 10-9.

Billy Cannon, the Heisman Trophy winner from Louisiana State, returned the second half kickoff 42 yards to the Houston 45. It took the Oilers 10 plays to move in front, 17-9, with Blanda passing to Bill Groman for the final seven yards.

Kemp then teamed with Paul Lowe, the league's No. 2 rusher, for Los Angeles' lone touchdown. Lowe carried over from the two, where Dave Kocorek had been knocked out of bounds after taking a 33-yard pass from Kemp.

This cut the Houston lead to one point at third time and it was not until early in the fourth quarter that Blanda threw his third strike of the day. Facing third down and 10 from his own 12, Blanda dropped back to his goal line before passing to Cannon at the 35. Cannon completed the 88-yard scoring play by outracing Jim Sears, the Charger defensive back.

Cannon, whose three pass receptions totaled 128 yards, was voted the game's outstanding player. He received eight votes to seven each for Lowe and Kemp.
